BOXING CONTEST WITHOUT GLOVES

There was a real live fight in Jos. Ovarde's place Wednesday night between Luther McCandless and Joe Benson, to which the public was not invited. The trouble is said to have started over matching quarters, and when vile epithets began to fly, the real trouble commenced. When the men were finally separated and gotten up off the floor, McCandless had one eye closed and his face cut and beaten almost to jelly. Blood flowed freely and the place looked like a slaughter pen. Both men had been drinking.

The officers came in soon after and locked the combatants up over night. They were let out on bail Thursday, and will be given a hearing before Judge Nielsen.

There was but one round to the contest, and rumor says that it may be resumed later.

Mothers' Day

Kipling has given us a picture of mother love that touches the sublime:

If I were hanged on the highest hill,
I know whose love would follow me still

Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know whose tears would come down
to me.

Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
If I were damned of body and soul,
I know whose tears would make me
whole.

Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
There we have it—a man's belief that his mother will never fall him.
Should we then fail to honor our mothers?

Mothers' day is observed on the second Sunday of May. Miss Annie Jarvis of Philadelphia, inaugurated the movement in 1907. It occurred to her while commemorating the death of her mother on the second Sunday in May that the day, falling in a season of blue sky and blossoms, might be set aside as an annual festival upon which due tribute of affection and remembrance should be rendered to all mothers.

Started Campaign
Miss Jarvis then began a campaign of personal appeal to men prominent in public life, clergymen, philanthropists, business and professional men, asking them to further the movement.

She pleaded her case so eloquently that in 1910 the day was celebrated not only in Philadelphia, but in many other cities. On May 10, 1913, a resolution passed the United States house of representatives and the senate commending Mothers' day for observance by the two houses of congress, the president and his cabinet and other heads of government departments.

In Other States
In the same year the legislature of Nebraska made Mothers' day a state flag day in honor of the patriotism of Nebraska's true homes and mothers.

In May, 1913, the legislature of Pennsylvania made Mothers' day a state holiday. The day is planned to be observed by some distinct mark of kindness, visit, letter, gift or tribute showing the remembrance of the mother or father to whom affection is due. Mothers' day is equally a fathers' day and is designed to deepen and perpetuate family ties.

Is International
An international association has been formed to promote and protect the observance of the day in all countries, and to carry forward the work. President Wilson and our ex-presidents are honorary national officers of the association. The white carnation has been selected as an emblem of the day because, as explained by Miss Jarvis, "it seems the least perishable, was not costly and could be worn by men and women alike. Then too, its sweet wholesome fragrance and white purity made it stand out as an appropriate symbol."

In the strenuous turmoil of the busy day—

With the builders in the heat of the dusty desert and on the dreary mountain side—

In the loyalty, the faithfulness, the unselfish devotion to duty of all those who minister to your telephone needs—

In and through the entire army of telephone workers ever glad to serve—

In all, through all and over all broods the gentle, animating and sustaining Spirit of Service.

MEAT PRODUCTION ON NATIONAL FORESTS INCREASES

Secretary of Agriculture Allots Range for Nearly Two Million Cattle and Nine Million Sheep.

(From the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)
Washington, April 22.—Receipts from grazing permits on the National Forests for the season of 1915 will contribute to the public revenues approximately $1,200,000, or about $200,000 more than last year, according to an estimate made from the allowances just authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture. The forests this year will furnish forage for 1,983,775 cattle and horses, 8,747,025 sheep and goats, and 64,040 swine, the figures indicating a material increase of meat production on the government-regulated ranges.

The increase of 92,656 cattle and horses over the allowances for 1914 is accompanied by an increase of 120,881 sheep and goats, showing that in many parts of the west sheep are giving away to cattle. It is thought that the recent high price of beef has been encouraging many farmers and former sheepmen to go

The grazing allowances indicate the relative improvement of the stock business in the various parts of the west in which the National Forests are situated. The forests in District 2, which embraces Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, Nebraska, Western Kansas, Northern Michigan and Northern Minnesota, are allowed the largest number of cattle, 522,550 head, and next to the largest number of sheep, 1,397,500 head; District 4, comprising Utah, Southern Idaho, Western Wyoming, Eastern and Central Nevada and Northern Arizona, the second largest number of cattle, 431, into the cattle business, though it will be the first time in the last five years that the allowance of sheep has not increased over that of the previous season. There are localities, however, where the demand for sheep range is far in excess of the supply.

The grazing charges are slightly higher this year. In the west the rates have been fixed at 48 to 90 cents per head per year for cattle and horses, and 12 to 18 cents for sheep and goats; in the east the rates are from 85 cents to $1.50 for cattle, $1.10 to $2.00 for horses, and 25 to 40 cents for sheep and goats. Pigs pay from 29 to 43 cents in the west and 50 to 90 cents in the east.
